AN ANGLER’S PARADISE

Few places offer the variety and accessibility of outdoor diversions that are found right in our backyard. You don’t even have to leave town to find some of the best fishing spots for trolling, spinning, bait casting and fly-fishing. Five public boat ramps and two marinas are located within a few miles.

The spring and summer month’s fast action catch is bass, trout and spring chinook. During the fall it is steelhead. The canyon has a healthy number of North America’s largest fresh water fish, the great white sturgeon, which can reach lengths of up to eight feet. You can’t take one home, but catching one could be the highlight of your trip.

EXPLORE HELLS CANYON

North America’s Deepest River Gorge, and the Snake River that winds through the canyon. Hells Canyon offers scenic vistas that rival any on the continent, world-class whitewater boating, and spectacular mountain peaks. The vast reaches of remote wilderness are the perfect setting for hiking or horseback riding full of diverse and abundant wildlife, artifacts from prehistoric tribes, and rustic remains of early miners and settlers. Hells Canyon National Recreation Area (HCNRA) truly offers something for everyone, and much to remember.

Guided jet boat and rafting tours leave from Lewis-Clark Valley seasonally. Hells Canyon, though a nationally famous run, has fairly easy whitewater. We highly recommend making reservations in advance with one of our professional guides found on page 22.

Spring rains and snow-melt bring the canyon’s sparse vegetation to life from mid-April to mid-June. The middle of the summer, you can expect to have very hot, very dry weather and terrific swimming. Hells Canyon boasts excellent fishing for small-mouth bass and sturgeon.

The Hells Canyon National Recreation Area, managed by the Wallowa-Whitman National Forest, hugs the borders of northeastern Oregon and western Idaho. This national showcase holds 652,488 acres of beauty and adventure, where you can let your senses run as wild as the landscape.
KIRKWOOD RANCH
Visit Kirkwood Ranch (pictured above), a small visitor center with displays of Hells Canyon artifacts and photographs reflecting the history of the area both before and after the coming of western Europeans. Access by a Hells Canyon jet boat tour or drive to Pittsburgh Landing from White Bird and take the foot trail for a 5-mile hike.

CACHE CREEK
Cache Creek Ranch is an administrative site located at the northern-most portal on the Snake River within the Hells Canyon National Recreation Area. Historically part of the Dobbin and Huffman Sheep Co. that flourished until the 1930s, it now serves as a shaded oasis for river travelers in the scenic portion of the Snake River. Visitor information and exhibits are available inside the house interpreting unique aspects of the canyon’s natural and cultural history. The expansive shady lawns and fruit orchard at Cache Creek attract both wildlife and people during the summer months with public restrooms open year-round.

ROAD ACCESS
Pittsburg Landing is the only access by road into Hells Canyon from North Central Idaho. Just south of White Bird, take Deer Creek Road where it leaves Hwy 95 at mile marker 222. After crossing the Salmon River, turn left and stay on the main road, approximately 17 miles to Pittsburg Landing. This is a well-maintained, single-lane gravel road with turnouts that crosses the divide between the Salmon and Snake Rivers. There are steep grades on both sides of this divide, so visitors pulling travel trailers or driving RVs should use extreme caution.

PERMITS
Permits are required year-round for all non-commercial floaters and power boaters on the Snake River within the HCNRA. Take time to read the regulations printed on the back of the permit before embarking on your trip. During the primary river season, reservations and trip permits issued by the Forest Service are required to launch trips at specific locations along the river. Powerboat or float permits and reservations and General HCNRA Information: 509.758.0616; Non-Commercial Float Information/Reservations: 509.758.1957; Non-Commercial Powerboat Information/Reservations: 509.758.0270; fs.fed.us/hellscanyon

PSST...Catch a glimpse of petroglyphs and a few pictographs at Buffalo Eddy. This rock art contains hundreds of distinct images associated with early Nez Perce people dating back as early as 4,500 years ago. 20 miles south of Asotin on Snake River Road.
THE FIRST COMMERCIAL RIVER RAFTING trips in the United States were launched in Idaho. The outfitters here have always been leaders and standard-setters for this industry. Outfitters offer rafting trips of all kinds for all ages and abilities. Families love the Main Salmon and the Snake River for their white sand beaches and beautiful scenery. The Clearwater River is perfect for a quiet flat water float late in the summer months. Whitewater seekers raft through the Middle Fork of the Salmon, Lochsa, Selway, or the Snake River through Hells Canyon in early spring. Outfitters take care of everything on these trips. Outfitters row the rafts or lead guests who paddle their own. Tents and waterproof gear bags are provided. Enjoy home-cooked meals, including salads made from fresh fruits and vegetables, and Dutch-oven baked breads and desserts. At the end of the day as the sun sets in the canyon, gather around a campfire with your fellow paddlers and enjoy the view. With the help of a local outfitter, explore the scenic rivers that flow through our region.
The Snake River, flowing through Hells Canyon, is a good run for dories, inflatable kayaks, rafters, and experienced jet boat guides. The river in the lower half of the canyon, below the Pittsburgh Landing rafting take-out, flattens out considerably. Strong upstream breezes are common on summer afternoons and can make rowing a slow, strenuous process. The lower part of the canyon is also a popular weekend playground for jet boaters.

Clearwater River
Take a day float from Kooskia to Orofino or from Orofino to the confluence of the Snake River. Wildlife viewing is good and the river is easy to access along Hwy 12. The Lochsa and the Selway come together at Lowell to form the Middle Fork of the Clearwater along Hwy 12. The float begins in lush cedar forests but gradually drier vegetation becomes more pronounced towards the end. While in the area, we recommend driving up the Selway for a look at the falls. In the fall, this is premium steelhead country.
GRANDE RONDE RIVER
Visitors are able to enjoy an unusually long float season for a free-flowing river, from ice breakup in the spring to freeze up in the fall. The Grande Ronde River is a nationally renowned sport fishery, one of the top three in the region. Primitive campsites along the river are on a first-come, first-served basis.

SALMON RIVER
The “River of No Return” is an ideal family rafting destination with mainly class III rapids and lodge-to-lodge stays. Most of the canyon is densely forested with ponderosa pine, Douglas fir and some grand fir. There is good hiking up side creeks, fishing, hot springs, white sand beaches, camping, and historical stops. The Middle Fork of the Salmon flows through the Frank Church - River of No Return Wilderness, the largest forest wilderness in the lower 48 states.

ACCORDING TO TRIBAL LEGEND

Nimiipuu, “the people,” were created in north central Idaho at the dawn of time. There is evidence dating back more than 11,000 years of Nez Perce inhabiting the regions surrounding the Clearwater and Snake River valleys.

Appointed by President Thomas Jefferson, Captains Meriwether Lewis and William Clark were charged with finding the Northwest Passage to the Pacific Coast. The Lewis-Clark Expedition was one of the most significant exploration events in the history of the United States. The explorers camped overnight on an island near the confluence of the Snake and Clearwater rivers located near what is now the sister cities of Lewiston, Idaho and Clarkston, Washington.

The Nez Perce people are credited with saving the lives of the Corps of Discovery explorers who entered their camp near starvation. Without the food and shelter provided by the Nimiipuu villagers, the Lewis and Clark expedition may have had a tragic ending.

Year round, one can indulge in many unique and specialized events in our region. Museums provide insight into how this area was originally home to the Nez Perce Tribe long before the miners and explorers came. From the Native American and Asian cultures, to the Lewis and Clark Expedition, history is vividly displayed.
ASOTIN COUNTY HISTORICAL SOCIETY MUSEUM features hands-on displays emphasizing the region’s pioneer period. PUBLIC ART

THE NORTH LEWISTON GATEWAY PROJECT provides artwork that can be appreciated as you drive into Lewiston from the north and east. Artists David Govedare and Keith Powell created a series of statues depicting the meeting of Lewis and Clark and the Nez Perce people. Three bronze statues, created by Shirley Bothum, depict Meriwether Lewis, William Clark and Sacajawea. Highway 12 and 21st Street Intersection, Lewiston, ID.

LEWIS-CLARK STATE COLLEGE In the center of campus is a representation of the explorers meeting Chief Twisted Hair. The wooded setting depicts the Clearwater region with waterfalls and native plants. Venture further through campus to find a bronze Sacajawea sculpture in front of Sacajawea Hall. 500 8th Ave, Lewiston, ID

THE TSCEMINICUM SCULPTURE is located on the Lewiston side of the confluence of the Clearwater and Snake rivers. It interprets Nez Perce mythology with a symbolic Earth Mother figure whose body sustains all forms of life, and from whose hands the rivers run. Located on the Lewiston, ID side of the confluence of the Clearwater and Snake Rivers.

LISTENING CIRCLE Experience the Listening Circle created by Maya Lin, and focus your attention on the breeze through the trees, the gentle sound of the water, and the muted colors of the enduring landscape that surrounds them. Chief Timothy Park; confluenceproject.org

LEWISTONROUNDUP.COM
ROLLING OVER 176 MILES from Lewiston, Idaho, across the Snake River and up to the Montana state line at Lolo Pass, Route 12 is known as the Northwest Passage Scenic Byway because it roughly follows the route that Lewis and Clark pioneered back in the day. Fully of valley sweepers, high-mountain passes and incredible views, it’s an easier, but no-less-spectacular, route today.

This beautiful byway is the easiest way to trace the Lewis and Clark Expedition route along the Clearwater and Lochsa rivers. The Lewis and Clark National Historic Trail lies on the mountainous ridges above the rivers in this land of the Nez Perce Indians. This byway follows the water route Lewis and Clark sought but were unable to navigate.

From the west this beautiful route begins at the Washington state line on Hwy 12 and traverses the winding Clearwater River Canyon, passing through the Nez Perce National Historical Park areas of Spalding and Kamiah and the towns of Lenore, Orofino, Kamiah, and Kooskia. At Kooskia, the byway splits, with one route continuing on Hwy 13 south to the Camas Prairie and the town of Grangeville, while another heads east on Hwy 12 along the Middle Fork of the Clearwater River and the Lochsa Wild and Scenic River, toward the Montana border.

Lewiston to Montana: 176 miles, 4 hours. Kooskia to Grangeville: 26 miles, 40 minutes.

As we walked through the rows of vines, wine glasses in hand, I had a “We’re not in Kansas anymore” moment. The Idaho Century Farm that is home to Clearwater Canyon Cellars provides glimpses between the grapes of soft, rounded bronze hills in the distance. But this was not a wine region I was familiar with. Varietals like Syrah, Cabernet Sauvignon, Malbec, and Carmenère were all worthy and welcome palate pleasers. My friends and I exchanged wry smiles and knowing nods. After all, this was exactly what we were looking for and precisely why we chose the Lewis-Clark Valley.

The Lewis-Clark Valley is where some of the first vines in the Northwest were planted and where some of its finest wines are currently being produced. As far as yet-to-be-discovered destinations go, it’s a prime spot flying well below the recreational radar of most. I’ll be the first to admit that it was probably my inner Portland hipster that helped guide the decision to head here for wine a weekend with friends—before it’s cool.

At the recommendation of nearly anybody I could ask, we booked a tour with Twisted Vine Wine Tours to get a good lay of the land - and secure a designated driver. This decision made me a hero within the group. Clint, the owner/tour guide, was a gold mine of knowledge and affable professionalism. We stopped at Lindsay Creek Vineyards, a sprawling estate with perfectly paired chocolate and wine combinations. Back in town, we visited the Vine 46 tasting room in Newberry Square. The old brick and hardwood floors were complimented nicely by the wines. Mourvedre, Syrah, and Malbec—all had great character as well as wallet-friendly price points. Then we went just over the river to Basalt Cellars. This was to be our final tasting of the trip. I’m not entirely sure how to properly assign blame, but our stop there turned into a furious wine buying-salvo that squared us up on reds for the rest of the year.

A wine weekend in the Lewis Clark Valley is unlike any other in the Northwest. In some ways, it’s akin to what those suddenly renowned areas must have been like 10 or 20 years ago. It’s new and exciting. Everybody seems to understand that they’re onto something, but it’s being built on its own merits, with its own history and character firmly intact. It is undiscovered and absolutely authentic.
LEWIS-CLARK VALLEY AVA is the first and only wine region to be nestled in the unique mountainous backbone of the Bitterroot Mountains. With steep river canyons and plateaus, it is home to the lowest elevation vineyards in the state at 950 feet. It’s also unique in that it spans both Idaho and Washington. Nearly 72 percent of the land is located in Idaho, while the rest lies in Washington State. The area is home to 16 vineyards growing more than 80 acres of grapes, including 14 red and 9 white wine grape varieties.

Wine lovers and wine judges are consistently ranking Lewis-Clark Valley wines among the best of the best in northwest competitions and beyond.

This region is considered part of the new frontier of wine-growing areas in the United States. But we actually have a long wine history. Grapes were introduced into the Clearwater Valley in 1872. Thanks to the pioneering efforts of two Frenchmen, Louis Delsoi and Robert Schleicher, and one German immigrant, Jacob Schaefer, the region rapidly become known for its wines.

Map out your wine tasting adventure and make sure to take some home to share with friends and family.

AFFORDABLE COST OF LIVING

variety of cultural events, access to medical services, and abundant recreational possibilities make the Lewis-Clark Valley a wonderful place to live. During the winter, the thermometer rarely dips below freezing with an average high of 42 degrees. On average, there are 169 sunny days per year and only 11 inches of rain per year, allowing you to get out and enjoy the weather.

The Lewis-Clark Valley offers a unique location for starting and expanding companies. On one side of the Snake River is a corporate income tax state (Idaho); on the other side is a gross receipt tax state (Washington).

They each present different regulatory environments, depending on the nature of the business. Business locations can be determined on the basis of most-appropriate tax and regulatory issues while enjoying the same labor market, vendor support, transportation services, and training resources.

We offer four economical modes of transportation to accommodate business needs. Air travel and air freight needs are served, and rail service is provided by three competitive carriers. We have river port sites which readily link us to domestic and international markets. A network of federal, state, and county roads round out our intermodal transportation system.
